Hello Nick,
Really pleased with my progress so far with your starter strategy 'trade with a day job' since starting in November last year. I did as you said and demo traded it for 3 weeks in which time I took 45 trades and then started real trading with 50 pence trades which was not too much to stake so it was really relaxed. I only had £300 to put into my trading account, but that has now more than trebled in size and I am now trading at £2 per point.
I found the manual easy to understand and the strategy was quite simple to grasp, and from almost the beginning I was taking the same trades as you were as you highlighted in your daily email to me. That breakdown of each days trades was invaluable for me and has really taught me to be a professional trader - thanks very much. I was worried that it was going to be too complicated but it was easy to set up my chart and everything can be done on my old laptop without modern graphics. A new laptop is going to be my first big buy with trading profits though, in a few months
So a big thank you for getting me on the first rung of the trading ladder, I am looking forward to a year with more money to spend and a lot of my dreams are going to be fulfilled, I have this feeling its going to be a lovely 2011.
Also a big thank you for the document you sent earlier today showing your experiences over the last 15 years on which candlesticks work best with Forex charts - really interesting and is going to make my trading even more profitable.
All the best GRANT

Hello Nick,
Thanks for the AnyTime system that you sent over last month, I have started trading it very slowly, but I am happy to report I am now staking 2pounds per point (up from 1 pound).
My trading in the evening with your system is continuing well, I am upto 14 pounds per point now and my account is standing at over 9500 GBP.
I found an email that I sent you in January 2010 just a few days after I bought your evening system, and embarrassingly I was moaning at you about the fact that I couldn't be bothered to learn your system, and I really thought that trading was not for me. Your reply, that offered encouragement, really put me on the right road, and it was only a month later that I started trading with real money after my demo trading period. I am so glad I did not give up and thank you very much for insisting that I got off my arse and applied myself. My teachers at school said the same thing, but I did not listen to them, hence I was always in low paid jobs for most of my life. I now work for my son, so at least the pay is better than being on the bins !! Hope your having a nice weekend and thanks for everything.
Regards, Bert

Hi Nick,

Thank you for your daily emails that show your actual trade - they are very useful, especially in the first week of receiving your manual. I have had your system for 3 weeks, and I am happily trading the same as you do every evening, and I shall be trading with real money as from today. My demo trading has gone well, so I am confident with my next move. As you know, I am trading in conjunction with a friend of mine, Andrew Charlton, and he is at the same position as I am with regard to trading with real money now.

Over the last 24 months we have bought 5 other systems, and the only one we have done any good with (apart from yours) is Damon Elliot's Piptatsic, the rest were absolute rubbish, and I personally have learned that price is not a determining factor. We have paid £2000 for a system that did not work from day one, so yours is astounding value for money.

I have read on one forum that a couple of people had problems trading with one part of your system, all I can say is they must be very stupid, it is child's play as far as I am concerned. There is nothing tricky about the strategy, but I believe some people are so desperate to become a trader that they overlook the fact that they are probably not suited to a career as a financial trader! You can't tell them though can you??

Keep the emails coming and I will let you know how I am getting on in the next few months.

Yours sincerely,
Jose Silverio

Good afternoon Nick,

Well this is my 4th week of full-time trading and I am enjoying it so much. My trading account has gone from £3500 to nearly £6000 (this morning) by trading your anytime system in the mornings and also your trade with a day job system after 5pm. I must admit I have been trading all day and a lot of the evening but I can see how I can just do the London opening session early in the morning and then come back late afternoon and trade your evening system. I can earn enough from those 2 sessions to be able to take most of the day off and still earn double what I was earning with my full-time job.

Thanks for everything Nick and I will keep in touch

Yours sincerely,
David Cole.

Good morning Nick,

A belated thank you email today for your USA Forex system that I bought in March. It is a nice, simple system and I am getting on well with it. I find time to trade it probably 2 or 3 days a week, although I have been trading at work during the day when there is nobody else in the office ! It is as profitable as you say !!

I trade your evening system every day now, and I am at £12 per pip would you believe, which is a nice comfortable level for me for the time being. I have been told that I can retire in September so I am looking forward to proper fulltime trading after that. I am now earning more from trading than the day job anyway now, so it does seem pointless coming in to the office every day !

And lastly, thank you very much for the 'free' trading system you sent me yesterday, it looks very good. I will integrate it into my daily trading quite easily !

I wish you well after your recent stay in hospital.

Yours sincerely,

Peter.

I am now finally feeling as though I am a proper trader Nick. I started learning your anytime system just before Christmas, and although I couldn't really devote as much time as I wanted to, I did manage to get in front of my computer from 7 o'clock every morning for an hour. I have spent the whole of January and the 1st week of Feb demo trading and that has gone ok, and over the weekend I put some more money into my Capital Spreads account and I will be trading for real tomorrow morning. I am so excited - this has been a very long road to get to this point in my trading, I started learning in 2008 and bought some really dreadful systems, but I suppose its all part of the learning curve. There is no such thing as the holy grail and the only way anyone will make a success of this trading game is to work really hard and learn as much as possible. There are no shortcuts, as with anything in life, those who work the hardest get the rewards. Very pleased I bought your system, and at last my ambition to be a proper financial trader is becoming reality. Have a good day Nick and I will let you know how I get on this week.

All the best from Charlie

Good afternoon Nick,

I really did not think that I would ever become a momings person, but you have managed to change me. I have to get off to work at 8 o'clock so I would stay in bed until the very last moment before I had to get down the road to catch the bus, but my enthusiasm for trading that I now have, thanks to you, means I am wide awake at 6 o'clock now raring to go with your Anytime system. I only trade for a few hours per day in the morning (and sometimes in the evening) but profits are consistent pleased to say

I have traded on and off for the last 3 years without much success but I must admit I am now profitable at last with your early morning system. I average around 100 points per week, so that equates to around £400-£500 extra a week which does me just fine at the moment. I am not spending any of it, just compounding it as you have suggested.

Your desire for us to be great traders is the one thing that makes you stick out in my opinion, the amount of a additional stuff you send us all is amazing, I really get the feeling you genuinely care about us. I have bought 7 other so called systems in the past 3 years and I have to say your Any time system is head and shoulders above the rest. Thanks Nick for your help, and also for your prompt reply to my emails in the first few weeks when I joined you.

I hope everything is good with you, and I'll keep in touch with more results later.

All the best mate, Chris hello nick thanks for the anytime system it blooming good and has got me to where i am at the moment with my trading account

i just trade in the morning before i go to work and i can get around 20-25 points i get up at 6 oclock and trade for an hour or so and then call it a day after an hour or so or if i get to 25 points manual simple to understand and your support is brilliant with all the extra stuff you sent me all the trading books and bits on how to get my mind in the right place its been invaluable

i started trading about 5 years ago but have never found a system that has got me consistent earnings so ive probably lost around £6000 in that time but my account is back upto £2400 at the mo and is getting better every day thanks mate

if anyone wants to know about your system from a customer people are welcome to email me

thanks for evrything nick i really appreciate it

cheers duncan

Good morning Nic,

'Big' thank you for your evening system that I bought in January. It is working well, my trading account is now increasing and your customer service and email helpline is great. Happy for you to use this on your website feedback page.

My dream of fulltime trading is getting nearer - so very happy.

Cheers,

Trevor.

Hi Nick,

A quick email before I am off on my hols just to say thanks.

As you know, I was having a bit of trouble with my trading, and although I had got to grips with your evening system, I was still having trouble with the psychological part - as you describe it, the fear/greed thing. When I look back over the last 5 years, I think I have always had trouble - as I have bought some good systems - FTSE wealthbuilder, Pipstastic etc.

The new addition to your manual that you sent over a couple of weeks ago has really got me trading in a turbocharged manner. After all these years of struggling I am now placing trades faultlessly one after the other, so you can guess what my account looks like (I have attached a copy) As you can see, I have increased my account by 22% in just one week ! I obviously did a lot of reading about the way your mind plays games with you when you are starting to learn to trade, but I never believed it. I do now.

I am so glad you have included the new part, I have turned a corner ! Thank you very much. My husband still thinks I am mad, but I'll show him my account after a month, then he will be quiet I suspect!

I will be in touch in a couple of weeks after I return, to let you know how I am fairing

All the best, Alexis

hiya nick - though i would give you an update after buying your anytime system in march. I had a couple of weeks of paper trading before I was happy trading the anytime system with real money and i started off at £1 per pip as you suggested. I am now at £2 per pip with that but not taking any money out of my trading account yet. I only trade this system on fridays and also some mornings before i go to work
The evening system is still goingok and i am now trading at £6 per pip, so i am earning around £600 per week although this week was extremely good, so i think i cleared just over a £1000 ! As you have suggested i am keeping all the money in my trading account and not spending it yet.
One thing I need to know is about trading the anytime system on 1 and 2 hour charts can you send me some pointers and my friend simon hughes will be emailing you next week about the evening system as he wants to start now
All the best - jo

Hello Nick,

I bought your evening trading system about 3 weeks ago, and I thought I would give you some feedback. The manual is well written, and I understand all the concepts that you explain in it. You daily email that you send to me helps with the understanding of the strategy, and I have now finished demo trading the system after the recommended amount of trades. I will be going 'live' this week - I am just waiting for Capital Spreads to acknowledge my deposit that I made yesterday (to load my trading account)

Now that I fully understand the system, it is quite obvious why it works so well. It is head and shoulders above the dross that I have spent my hard-earned money on in the past. I was actually recommend to you after the review that Graham did on his website - I thought his 3 month test of your system was very comprehensive (and accurate it turns out !!)

I will keep you informed of my progress over the next few months - but if the past 3 weeks are any indication, I shall be happy I bought from you.

All the best mate, Joe Miskin

Subject: You Any-Time trading system.

Good afternoon Nick,

This is a short note/email to say I am getting on well with your Any-Time trading system. I finished the demo trading period just after Christmas and began trading at 10 pence per point. I have progressed from that level and I am now at £1 per point after 2 months and I am earning a consistent 25 points per day (my target) part-time before I go off to work. My train to London is at 8.15am so I always manage to get a couple of hours trading in before that. I am excited to see what I shall be earning in 3 months time as I am compounding all my profits, and not spending any of it. My goal is full-time trading by the end of the year which I have worked out is entirely feasible.

Although I am not (yet) an expert trader, I am a bit of an expert on trading systems and my 'crap' filter is very highly tuned after 3 years of buying some pretty rubbish systems over the internet. I have even bought some systems that have been tested by trading comparison sites and they have turned out to be useless. I have to say though, your Any-Time system is the best I have come across, and the way it works so simply makes it obvious why it cannot fail. The way you have constructed it shows you certainly know the markets inside out, and waiting for the two things to happen before a trade is entered makes so much sense.

I have thought of designing my own system, but I would have to forward test it for a few years, and then it may not work so it is then back to the drawing board to start again, so the only option is really to buy an 'off-the-peg' strategy, but then you have hundreds to choose from. Being able to contact your customers personally was a great help and gave me confidence that I was buying a good system with excellent feedback and customer service. If anyone wants to learn to trade the markets, they must buy your system simple as that.

Hope you had a good holiday, and I am looking forward to your daily emails again showing us your trades with the systems.

Yours faithfully,

Donald

Good evening Nick,

Re: Evening System Purchase 6th Feb 2011

I am perhaps unusual as a customer as at the time of purchasing your evening trade system I already had been trading my own system for around 9 months. I have always been profitable with it and I was (at that time) trading at £10 per pip and doing very well with it.

I had heard some good things about your systems via the web so I thought that I would try one of them as they are so cheap compared with a lot of the other trading strategies available. The system of my own works at the London open at 8am so adding your one just enhanced my earnings without having to trade for much longer each day. I am self-employed so I can do my day job around trading, I have a four web businesses so I can work in the middle of the night if I wish.

As a (reasonably) seasoned trader I can say that your manual is well written and the methodology is simple as easy to understand. I read through it 3 times and then configured the charts onto my MT4 platform. I demo traded from day 1 and I started (against the advice in your manual) trading with real money on day 4 - it is that simple to pick-up. There is one idea I have taken from your system and incorporated into mine which makes it more profitable - thank you Nick !

With regard to the price of your system - its way too cheap - £89 for a system that gives me £100 every evening virtually, it's not rocket science - charge more !!

Any way, I'll be in touch in a couple of months to let you know how I'm getting on, I am still at £5 per pip with your system at the moment (£11 with my own system) but I will soon up that to the same level as my system. My goal is to have enough money in my trading account so that I can just trade at (say) £50 per pip for just one day a week and not work at all for the other 6 days. I have loads of hobbies so finding something to do with my time off is not difficult. Use the time to search out a new boyfriend perhaps, I'm only 38 after all and I have all my own teeth, and no mortgage !!

With best wishes,

Tracy.

Subject: Hi Nick

Hi Nick,
Really pleased with my first month of trading with your evening system with REAL money. I demo traded for 4 weeks prior to that and then put £100 into my trading account at smart live markets (as you suggested) and started at just 10 pence per pip at the end of January, so it was nice and easy, very relaxed trading. This past month (February) I have managed 260 pips, and I have stepped up my trading stakes from 10 pence to 40 pence during the last 2 weeks. Your advice was to take it slowly so I would not be forced into psychological problems and I must say that you were right. I am trading with a very relaxed mind, so different to my last 2 years of trying to learn to trade.

All in all, I have lost over £11,400 in the past 24 months by purchasing useless systems from people who are clearly NOT traders, they were just system sellers. It is refreshing to meet someone who has traded for most of his life and has only recently started selling his systems - it certainly shows in your professionalism. And also you know the answer to any question thrown at you, if you remember, I actually sent you 17 emails before I went ahead and bought your starter system - sorry about that, but I was so sceptical after my disastrous history in trading/spread betting. I have been close to divorce due to the money I have lost, and I must admit, I kept it quiet from my wife but she found out in the end. That was a horrible evening, I will NEVER forget it. She knows about my trading now, and is a bit happier due to the low stakes I am trading with. Once I explained that she maybe able to give up her job when I start trading with bigger stakes, she seemed a bit more enthusiastic about the whole thing.

Also thanks for the 'goals' book you sent me, I have read it through 4 times and have done 3, 6 month and 1 and 5 year plans and I am sticking to them via daily targets. It is so easy the way the book explains the concept of goals, it almost compels you to follow the instructions!

Right, must get back to work, my boss keeps coming over to look at what I'm doing on the computer, nosy B*gger. I really want to kiss him GOODBYE very soon !! BTW hope you're enjoying your holiday, you deserve it.

Thanks & Regards - Mickey

Hi Nick & Max

I know you haven't heard from me for a while, so I thought I would drop you a quick line as promised to let you know what's happening with work

My biggest news is that I have eventually given up work at the car valeting place at the end of Jan - my profits from your evening system would have allowed that a while ago, but I wanted to master the anytime strategy first while I still had my wages coming in. Plus my wife was very reluctant for me to chuck it all in as I was made a manager last summer after being there for 7 years. I do still have grief from her, but I booked a holiday yesterday in Egypt for the 2 of us so that appeased her slightly ! And depleted my trading account a bit at the same time !! We haven't had a holiday for 6 years.

I am averaging around £400 a week from the evening system, and my earnings from the anytime system are all being compounded. I am still only trading at £5 per pip although my trading account is big enough to trade at a much higher level (as you told me before xmas) but I much prefer to play it safely. I am increasing my account by £500-£600 per week by trading the anytime strat and not touching the money from it.

The other reason for emailing you today is to ask if you can sort out a deal for me on your other system - the USA forex one. Please let me know how much. How much does it differ from the anytime one ?

Anyway sorry to go on and I'll look forward to an email back. I'm away until Friday so don't expect a reply straight away !

Cheers. Nigel
